It's wood

Yes, it's real wood, locally grown. We took wood flooring in all its classic beauty and with the aid of modern technology made it extremely durable. But this is still a wood floor through and through.

It's hard

The floor is called B:hard for a reason. Using the patented Woodura® surface technology, we apply a wood top layer over a wood powder coating. This results in a long-lasting, hardened and durable floor.

Assured performance.

Wood has a tactile quality that immediately makes you feel at home in a room. This quality gives wood great appeal. However sometimes more than comfort is called for - in some situations high wear resistance and durability are also essential. At the same time, the price must be right.

To meet these demands, our research department developed B:hard by implementing the Woodura® surface technology. B:hard is a high-tech ecological timber product, which combines the advantages of various floor coverings. By permanently hardening the floor, it meets the usage classification 23/34 (heavy domestic/very intensive commercial use). It is especially suitable for office spaces, where office chairs with castors shouldn't cause any visible marks. It is also suitable over under floor heating, can be laid quickly and easily and is resistant to burn marks from cigarettes (up to grade 4). In impact testing it performs better than ceramic tiles or laminate floors.

B:hard is available with oiled surfaces.
